SEEK RAIL PROBE; 'PADDED' LOSS

Governor Saltonstall today asked for a legislative investigation of the entire Massachusetts railroad situation, after Assistant Attorney General Edward A. Pece charged the New Haven railroad with manipulating figures to show losses on its Old Colony division.

No financial reason exists, Assistant Attorney General Pece said after a personal investigation, to abandon the 88 Cape Cod stations proposed for desertion by the railroad's trustees.

The Governor, in a special message to the Legislature, termed this problem "one of the most serious that has confronted the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in many years."

LEGAL COMPLICATIONS

"We cannot allow commercial centers such as Quincy and Brockton, or recreational areas such as the South Shore and Plymouth to be without freight and passenger facilities," declared the governor.

He urged a "real need for coordination" between the four agencies in the State House dealing with the Old Colony problem.

"The solution to this problem cannot come abruptly," he said. "There are legal complications that must be carefully studied and analyzed."

The case has already been in court. The Federal District Court in New Haven, under the general supervision of which the New Haven Railroad is operated as a bankrupt concern, authorized abandonment of the Cape Cod stations, only to have the decision reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

CITES "PADDING"

The Governor's message came after Attorney General Pece's report showing the railroad had claimed operating 33,440 coaches "more than were actually attached to locomotives," and hauling 200,000 fewer passengers in a year than were actually carried.

The railroad, he declared, has evaded the Old Colony Division with assessments for terminal facilities far beyond what should have been charged. It has even, according to his statement, based on a personal investigation of the situation, switched train and transported cars in order to make charges against the Old Colony division.

CITES TERMINAL FEES

"It has been revealed," he declared, "that trains operated on the New England, a subsidiary of the New Haven Railroad, were shifted at Readville to the Boston & Providence for the purpose of charging the Boston & Providence with terminal facilities at the South Station."

"This same practice was followed in the shifting of trains from the New England to the Old Colony division to unload terminal charges from the New England to the Old Colony."

Pece declared that 70 per cent of the more than $2,000,000 charges for terminal facilities in Boston had been written off against the Old Colony.

"It is reasonably clear that if a fair allocation of terminal facility charges had been made and a fair determination of operating costs in the East End territory

SNO-O-O-ORK!—For pure oddity of comfort we give you Andy Athanas of the West End, who snuck under West Boston bridge, found himself a cozy abutment and beat off some sleep. Andy said the breeze he got was something to talk about. Story on Page 11.

Wind Cools Boston, Storm in Brockton

The mercury slid gratefully down today, after hovering in the high eighties for several hours, subsiding under the influence of breezes hauling around to the East and bringing rain clouds with them.

Possible local showers, with cooler weather, was the official prediction, after a week-end which saw record crowds thronging waterside resorts.

A virtual cloudburst swept southeastern Massachusetts from Hingham to Quincy, washing the heat from the air and drenching the landscape.

At Brockton, a lightning bolt set fire to a huge municipal cattle barn which contained hundreds of tons of hay. Twenty-one cows and four horses were saved but the barn was destroyed. Officials set the loss at between $8000 and $10,000.

Hailstones as big as marbles destroyed crops in the district.

One case of heart failure, attributed to the effects of too much sun, was recorded today when Robert Spencer, 61, of West street, Malden, a city laborer, collapsed at Salem and Pierce streets, Malden, on his way to work.

Saltonstall Lists 14 'Reasons' For Callahan Ouster

Squandering of public funds was charged formally today by Governor Saltonstall against Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan as the governor opened public hearings in his ouster proceedings.

Another allegation against Callahan, long an elusive target under various administrations, was that he failed "to observe sound business practices and a faithful adherence to law and regulation."

CITES HURRICANE CONTRACTS

Fourteen specific charges read by the governor to open the public hearings at noon all narrow down to these two general allegations, with the 14th item reading:

"The good of the service requires that you cease to be commissioner of public works."

Singled out by the Governor in his charges were contracts under the state's $19,500,000 flood and hurricane damage repair program.

With the hearings opened shortly after noon, Callahan lost the first skirmish in what promises to be a long and tenacious engagement when Governor Saltonstall denied a motion that the executive council be required to hear all the evidence.

To conduct the hearings without the executive council present, asserted Callahan's counsel, John L. Murphy, a brother-in-law and former Arlington town-counsel, "places the council in the position of being a rubber stamp."

Murphy, introduced as the Callahan counsel only after the governor had read the formal charges, asserted that the statutes require the council's "advice and consent" in such removal proceedings.

"Of course this may be a political situation and that is why you don't want the council here," the lawyer added.

GOVERNOR REPLIES

Governor Saltonstall, when Murphy was through, replied crisply:

"The Supreme Court has already ruled that the governor has the right to conduct a hearing of this sort by himself. The motion is denied."

"Then you will please save my exception," said Attorney Murphy, indicating that the fight may eventually wind up in Supreme court.

M'NUTT NEW FSA CHIEF

WASHINGTON, July 10 (INS)—President Roosevelt tomorrow will announce the appointment of Paul V. McNutt, retiring U. S. high commissioner to the Philippines and the Hoosier candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, as the New Deal's security administrator.

Word that the announcement would be forthcoming followed a conference today between the President and McNutt at which the latter is presumed to have accepted the offer of the new security post—one of the choicest plums in Washington outside of the cabinet itself.

The President's announcement may also refer to McNutt's political ambitions.

The former Indiana governor said after a recent conference with President Roosevelt that his friends could continue their efforts to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination for him next year.

Rescue in Harbor

Murphy Clings to Pilings, Shouts for Help

He's Thrown Rope, Attaches It to Waist

Heave Ho! He's Pulled Aboard Police Boat

All's Well! Rescue Is Accomplished

POLICE AHOY!—When George Murphy of Rosbury fell into the harbor from Lewis Wharf early today, his shouts brought the police boat William H. McShane to his rescue. As he clung to pier pilings, officers on the boat threw him a line, then hauled him aboard. It was a narrow squeak.

Comrades Pay Final Tribute to Logan

The boys who went with him to France and with him came out of that ordeal alive paid touching tribute today to Lieutenant-General Edward L. Logan at solemn funeral services in South Boston.

Joining with them were the new members of the 101st Infantry Regiment, dignitaries of city, county, state and federal governments, members of the clergy and the bar and other professions, as well as residents of the district over whom court he presided.

COMRADES IN TRIBUTE

For an hour before the services the Gate of Heaven Church was packed to capacity, while eventually more than 2000 persons, unable to find room inside, jammed I and East Fourth streets.

The funeral cortege, which started from the Logan summer home at Cohasset, was met at Columbia road and East Ninth street, South Boston, by 1200 members of the 101st Infantry Veterans' Association, in command of President Edward J. McCormack.

Also on hand was the present 101st Infantry, M. N. G., in command of Colonel Paul G. Kirk, superior court judge.

Here the flag-draped casket was transferred from the hearse to a motor caisson, and was escorted by the soldiers and veterans to the church.

Directly behind the slow-rolling caisson followed a horse, black-draped, saddled and with military boots turned backward in the stirrups.

The 101st Infantry Band, lined up at the church, played "The Dawn Was Purpling," composition of the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York, as the procession arrived, and as the casket went into the church, the band began Chopin's Funeral March.

LEADERS AT SERVICES

United States Senators Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and David I. Walsh, with Governor Saltonstall and Mayor Tobin, led the 123 honorary pallbearers into the church, and out again after the service.

The Rev. Leo J. Logan, brother of General Logan, was celebrant at a solemn high mass of requiem. The Rev. Matthew J. Fishery of St. Agnes' Church, Arlington, was deacon; the Rev. John F. Madden of St. Anthony's Church, Cohasset, was sub-deacon; and the Rev. Dennis F. Murphy, General John H. Sherburne and Colonel Thomas R. Sullivan.

Among the prominent Massachusetts, who were honorary pallbearers were General Charles H. Cole, Frank D. Comerford, Arthur V. Grimes, Daniel J. Leno, Colonel Thomas F. Murphy, General John H. Sherburne and Colonel Thomas R. Sullivan.

Colonel Kirk headed the military escort, which included 1st 101st Infantry band and bugle corps, 101st Infantry, Battery C, 101st Field Artillery, Troop C, 110th Cavalry.

TAPS ARE SOUNDED

Following the church services, the military escort accompanied the body to the municipal building in Broadway.

In front of the building, as the casket was transferred from the caisson to a hearse, past state commanders of the American Legion headed by John J. Maguire, members of the 101st Regiment and the old 101st Regiment associations, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and Spanish War Veterans filed by and saluted their departed comrade.

Then a funeral procession, more than a mile long, started for Old Calvary Cemetery, Mattapan, where taps were sounded at the grave and volleys fired by members of Company A, 101st Infantry.

SOCIALITE SUICIDE

MOTIVE?

The suicide of Mrs. Caroline Roebeling Hagner Walters, 27, Washington heiress and Nantucket summer resident, in Reno, Nev., baffled police today. She was found by her husband, Paul Walters, with bullet wound in side and died en route to hospital. She had just received letter concerning sale of property in Nantucket when she took her life.

NANTUCKET NOTE KEY CLUE IN RENO SUICIDE OF WIFE

NANTUCKET, July 10—David Raub, lessee of the Nantucket Airport, police said today, can be of assistance to the authorities at Reno, Nev., in their investigation of the apparent suicide of Mrs. Caroline Roebeling Hagner Walters, 27, socially important, regular summer resident of this island.

Dispatches from Reno reported that she supposedly shot herself in her bedroom there after receipt of a business letter.

The letter was from Raub, according to Reno reports, and Maris Conway, the housemaid, said her mistress flew into a rage after receiving it.

Raub said he had written a business letter to Mrs. Walters, owner of the airport which he leased, but it was a routine business letter, nothing for Mrs. Walters to get excited about.

Meanwhile, with a legal battle impending over the custody of the two children of Mrs. Walters, a strong guard has been placed over them.

The children, Allison, eight, and Alexander, two, were born of her first marriage which ended in divorce last May. Their mother found mortally wounded in a bedroom of her Reno home, died in her husband's arms last night as she was rushed to a hospital.

She married Paul Walters several days after her Reno divorce from Alexander Hagner, Washington socialite, last May. Walters told police his wife, the granddaughter of the builder of the Brooklyn bridge, became distressed after reading a letter from Raub concerning proposed sale of the property.

Demand Hub Clean Polluted Beaches

WHO SAID
NO NAME?

The city of Boston could be fined $2500 a day for pouring tons of raw sewage into Boston harbor, if the federal government has not decided "for ethical reasons" not to proceed against it, the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs was told today at the State House in a hearing on water pollution.

The witness was Lieut. Commander Charles W. Thomas, in charge of the enforcement of the Rivers and Harbors Act, federal statute which forbids individuals, cities and towns, from venting raw sewage into navigable waters.

His testimony came after a Quincy mother had come forward with her 15-year-old daughter to show the committee the ravages of impetigo, skin disease which is attributed to bathing in sewage laden waters. The girl's face was covered with severe lesions caused by the ailment.

Basic of the hearing was a report by a special commission on water pollution, empowered to study the condition of Boston Harbor, Quincy Bay, and Hingham Harbor, together with tributary streams, appointed after a vigorous campaign against existing filthy conditions conducted by the Boston Evening American since a year ago.

The Commission recommended a thorough cleanup, with expenditure of $24,717,000, of which $5 per cent would be raised by affected cities and towns through 40-year bond issues, and the remainder would be contributed by the Federal government.

PLANTS PROJECTED

The project would include establishment of sewage disposal plants on Deer, Nut and Moon Islands, at an estimated cost of $10,022,000, and the spending of $14,695,000 for preventive work on the Charles, Mystic, Absejona and Malden rivers and Alewife brook, all little better than open sewers pouring filth into the harbor.

First witness before the Metropolitan Affairs Committee was its own chairman, Representative Harris S. Richardson of Winchester, who also served as chairman of the special pollution commission.

As citizens of Eastern Massachusetts crowded the hearing room, and overflowed into the corridors, Representative Richardson told the committee that water conditions around Boston are "deplorable."

"Something should be done at once," he said, adding that both the commission and the metropolitan affairs committee were unanimously behind the clean-up proposals.

Representative Joseph L. Whitton, former mayor of Quincy, cited the 1918 influenza epidemic and declared that with pollution conditions as they are on some beaches around Boston something as bad might be imminent.

Pointing out that Quincy's share in the proposed cleanup fund would be $794,000, Mayor Thomas F. Egan of Quincy said the city felt it would be "money well spent."

Bandits' Faces Red

Get $7000 Despite Children

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 10 (AP)—While children fired typically childish questions, two somewhat embarrassed robbers held up a meeting of eight managers and two officials of the Sillman food stores Sunday and escaped with week-end receipts totaling $7000.

Fidgeting, three children taken to the usual week-end conference by two of the eight managers were forced to lie on the floor with their fathers and the other eight men.

As the robbers pawed through the receipts they found stony silence only prompted more of such questions from the children as:

"What are you doing that for?"

"Why are you carrying that?" (pointing to a shotgun and pistol.)

"Why are we on the floor?"

The robbers never answered, keeping their eyes away from the children, none of whom was more than 6.

Sherry, 5, and Howard, 2½, children of Arthur Siever, weren't going to lie down until their father sold them on the idea it was a game.

WPA Strike Hits Subway Job Here

Power shovels and cranes at the Huntington avenue subway project were idle today, threatening to hold up the entire $5,000,000 job, as the result of the strike of 50 operators in protest against the new WPA wage and hour schedule.

The men are members of Local 4 of the Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union, A.F.A., who voted to join the nation-wide protest movement at a meeting held in Gainsboro Hall, Back Bay.

Eight of the crane operators started the strike by failing to appear for work on the morning shift. Two hundred men are normally employed on the shift and were kept busy on what work was possible without the large power shovels.

Elsewhere in Massachusetts, WPA workers generally remained at their jobs, while government officials and labor leaders sought to change the new system which has produced floods of protests.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, in calling a conference of all union leaders in Washington Wednesday, said organized workers will use "all the strength we possess" to force a change in the present law.

Bill Restores WPA Wage, Hour Schedule

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Rep. Sabath (D) of Illinois, introduced in the House today a bill to restore the prevailing wage rate on Work Relief Projects.

Elimination of the prevailing wage rate from the 1940 work relief appropriation act caused the hours of some WPA workers to be increased to 120 a month and brought on a widespread strike of skilled WPA workers.

The American Federation of Labor protested that elimination of the provision would tend to lower wages generally since its effect would be to make WPA employees work at much lower rates of pay.

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 16—Any attempted unilateral solution of the Danzig problem threatening the independence of Poland itself will find Great Britain "firmly resolved" to carry out her promise of armed assistance to the Poles, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

The prime minister admitted, however, that the present settlement of Danzig's problems, as provided for in the League of Nations statute, establishing it as a free city, "might be capable of improvement."

This was the only conciliatory note in a declaration that otherwise constituted a firm warning to Nazi Germany against encouragement of any internal move by Danzig to amalgamate itself with the Reich in a manner threatening the independence of Poland.

Both Poland and France had approved the Chamberlain statement in advance.

VITAL TO POLAND

"We have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in case of a clear threat to her independence which she considers it vital to resist," Chamberlain said. "And we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking."

After commenting on Danzig's "vital and strategic and economic importance" to Poland Chamberlain admitted that the present status of the Free City "might be capable of improvement."

"But recent occurrences in Danzig," he added, "immediately arouse fears that it is intended to settle its future status by unilateral action organized by surreptitious methods and to present Poland and other powers with a fait accompli, which immediately would raise graver issues affecting Polish national existence and independence."

CITES "2 REASONS"

The prime minister's statement, long delayed by the exigencies of parliamentary procedure and the need for lengthy deliberations with the Polish government, was significant for two reasons:

1—It was the first time the British government had formally included Danzig in its pledges to Poland.

2—It left the situation exactly where it was when Chamberlain first announced the British guarantee on March 31—namely, that Poland must decide whether or not her independence is threatened before Britain is obligated to go to her aid. In addition, Poland must "consider it vital to resist" such a threat before Britain is required to act.

Contrary to reports, Britain has no intention of sending Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax to Moscow to aid the Anglo-Russian anti-aggression pact negotiations, Chamberlain also indicated.

Danzig Protests Poles' Invasion

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 16 (AP)—Free city authorities drafted a protest to Poland today against an alleged "violation of the frontier" by three Polish soldiers.

Police charged that shortly before dawn two Polish privates and a non-commissioned officer crossed the frontier bridge over the Vistula river at Liessau and menaced Danzig customs officials with a rifle.

The customs officials, they said, held their ground and the Poles were persuaded to return to Poland.

It came in the wake of a defiant Nazi demand for removal of a Polish military depot on the strategic Westerplatte at the mouth of the Vistula.

59 More Soviet Fliers Shot Down

TOKYO, July 16 (INS)—Japanese forces shot down 59 additional Soviet and Outer Mongolian airplanes in routing Soviet "invaders" of Manchukuo in the vicinity of Lake Baikal, an official Japanese military announcement stated today.

The planes were downed in a terrific aerial battle over the Khalka river, following which Soviet-Mongol forces were driven out of the delta between the Holsten and Khalka rivers, the announcement said.

Italy Demands Britain's Malta

ROME, July 16 (INS)—Malta, strategic island in the Mediterranean south of Italy, where Britain maintains a powerful naval base, today was added unofficially to the territories sought by Italy as her price of appeasement.

The demand appeared in the Fascist newspaper Reste del Carlino, while Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, went to Spain to bind more closely the Fascist and Falangist regimes.

In addition to Italy's previous demands for Tunisia and Jibuti, and a share in control of the Suez canal, said Reste del Carlino, "Italian territory (such as Malta) must be Italian, Spanish territory (such as Gibraltar) must be Spanish."

FOIL TORSO SLAYER'S SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, July 10 (AP)—Frank Dolzal, held as the confessed killer in one of Cleveland's dozen "torso murders," attempted suicide twice today, Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell reported.

The 32-year-old bricklayer once tried to hang himself with his shirt but the garment tore, O'Donnell said, and later tried hanging with the aid of his shoe strings.

"I won't do it again," he promised.

The sheriff meanwhile was arranging a lie detector test later today for Dolzal, who he said has confessed the killing of Mrs. Florence Pollio.

PICKUP

Declaring himself unsatisfied with Dolzal's signed confession of the Pollio murder, the sheriff said: "We want to clear up the Pollio death first with an outright case in take to court. We'll attend to the other cases later."

While the story of the famed Kingsbury Run torso murder serial, told in startling installments over a period of nearly four years, appears to approach its dramatic conclusion with the arrest and confession of the one-time slaughter house employee, the whole story will not be told until names are given nine "numbers" on a grim record sheet in the Cuyahoga County morgue.

Only Mrs. Pollio, Edward Andrusky, a former hospital orderly, and Mrs. Irene Wallace, 52, have been identified among the 12 headless dead. Sheriff O'Donnell says Dolzal knew and associated with all three.

Bing Crosby Here to Watch Entry at Downs

Slightly attired in a gabardine suit, Panama hat with a band in three colors, and a linen polo shirt, crooner Bing Crosby arrived in Boston today.

He is in Boston to view, with Lynn Howard, his trainer and co-owner, the running of the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs track Wednesday, in which Bing's pony, Ligatort, is entered.

As pleasant and soft-spoken as ever, Bing's only worries are the heat, the condition of his horse, and whether he can get in any golf while he's here.

In the back of his convertible limousine Bing carries enough clubs to start a small country club. He'll leave Boston Wednesday night to return to his California ranch, where his family now is.

"Is that pony of yours in good enough condition so you would advise a newspaperman, as friend to friend, to lay a duce on him?" he was asked.

"NEVER bet on horses," he advised. "These races are all for the improvement of the breed."

F. J. Hurley, Veteran Postal Official, Dies

Florence J. Hurley, 57, of Bowman street, Dorchester, superintendent of the Milton Lower Mills branch of the Postoffice, died today after a long illness. Postmaster Peter F. Tagan announced.

Hurley had been connected with the Postoffice since 1905, when he went to work as a letter carrier. He leaves a sister.

ESSAY WINNER RETURNS—Ruth Biggers, 14, New Orleans high school student and national essay contest winner, and Leila Eyoub, 14, arrive at Army Base aboard S. S. Escambion. Ruth is returning from six-week tour of Italy, her prize in contest, while Leila is returning to her Texas home after a four-year visit with her father, who is geologist at Instabul, Turkey.

CIO Picket Line Ties Up GM Plant

DETROIT, July 10 (AP)—The CIO-United Automobile Workers massed a solid picket line about the plant of the Fisher Body company in Pontiac today and several times prevented police and deputy sheriffs from opening a way into the plant. One arrest was made but no clubs were swung.

City officials said there were nearly 450 men in the picket lines and 30 police and 10 deputies on hand.

It's Mr. Chips' Busy Day and All "Goodbyes"

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—Mr. Otto Chips was sleeping late this morning because of a movie he hasn't seen and a novel he hasn't read.

About 12:30 a. m. today the telephone in the Chips home at 10101 South Hoyle avenue began to ring. Twelve times Mr. Chips answered it and 12 times this conversation ensued:

"Hello, is this Mr. Chips?"
"Yes."
"Goodbye, Mr. Chips!"

JAIL 'OFFICE WIFE'

NEW YORK, July 10—Mrs. Lillian Schrein, "office wife" convicted of embezzling $60,000 from the theater of Martin Beck, her uncle by marriage, today was sentenced by Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., to two to four years in prison.

An offer by Bertram Schrein, husband, to serve the sentence for her was ignored by the court.

Mrs. Schrein is 38 and the mother of two children. On the witness stand during the trial she confessed an illicit love affair with Beck over a period of many years. She said he lavished money on her and that their relations led her to believe she had a right to sign his name to checks which she used personally. Beck contradicted her story.

Mrs. Schrein wept when sentence was pronounced.

OPEN WPA BILL FIGHT IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 10 (INS)—A congressional battle over legislation to liberalize the new 1939-40 relief act opened in the House today as thousands of WPA workers throughout the nation remained idle in protest strikes against longer hours and wage restrictions instituted by the measure.

Representative Keller (D) Illinois, and Casey (D) Massachusetts, introduced bills to restore the prevailing wage system used previously by the WPA, and to eliminate a provision requiring that all workers who have been on relief rolls 18 or more months be dismissed for 30 days.

"The movement," Keller declared, "will result in the formation of a bloc to back the proposed changes. The Progressive group in the House is behind the proposal to a man."

He added that if the relief bill passed just two weeks ago is opened again a fight also will be conducted to boost the $1,722,000,000 appropriation to at least $2,500,000,000.

The striking WPA workers, facing dismissal tomorrow if they still are idle, are protesting chiefly against the new security wage system of the act, which abolished the prevailing wage principle, and the 30-day layoffs.

Under the new act, which requires all laborers to work 130 hours per month, many workers receive approximately the same pay they received for as little as 50 hours of labor under the prevailing wage system.

Plan Tax Increases

In Next Congress

WASHINGTON, July 10 (INS)—New revenue legislation calling for general increases in federal income taxes may be recommended to Congress next session by the Treasury. Confronted with another $9,000,000,000 expenditure program and a $3,000,000,000 deficit during the current fiscal year, the Treasury would welcome a tax boost of income, particularly in the $10,000 to $50,000 earning brackets.

One plan calls for increases in all surtax rates on individual incomes and reduces the $1000 exemption for single persons to $800 and the $2500 exemption for married persons to $2000.

800 Million Housing

Program Hits Snag

WASHINGTON, July 10 (INS)—The administration's $800,000,000 new low-cost housing and slum clearance program, which was praised by President Roosevelt when he launched the $1,560,000,000 lending plan, encountered serious opposition in the House Banking Committee today.

Criticism of the new program broke party ranks in the committee and became so strong that enactment of the legislation before adjournment was jeopardized.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol, as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them?

Buy at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 85, Baltimore, Md.

Havelock Ellis, Sex Expert, Dies at 80

LONDON, July 10 (AP)—Havelock Ellis, 80, scientist and sociologist known for his researches in the psychology of sex, died Saturday at the village of Hinton, it was disclosed today.

Ellis, whose full name was Henry Havelock Ellis, was a founder of the Fabian Society to which George Bernard Shaw belonged in his younger years. He had suffered from a throat ailment for many years.

Descended on both sides from seafaring families, Ellis spent much of his childhood in travel and from 1875 to 1879 taught in New South Wales.

BEGAN STUDY OF SEX

He returned to England and qualified for medicine but practiced only a short time before engaging in scientific and literary work.

He wrote so many books, he once remarked, that he had forgotten how many.

"I must go on writing, that is my relaxation," he said on his last birthday.

At the age of seven, Ellis sailed around the world and at 16 accompanied his sea-captain father to Australia, where he remained as a teacher.

After giving up medicine, he made a life study of sex, tracing the effects of heredity and habits on crime and insanity, as well as the psychology of sex.

"Studies in the Psychology of Sex," a long series of volumes that began in 1897, was the work to which Ellis was devoted primarily.

KNEW SECRETS OF MANY

Through much of his life he was unable to get his books published in England and this country knew most about his works from American publishers. In more recent years, however, they gained widespread acceptance here.

Ellis had the unusual faculty of being able to expound his scientific theories in a clear, often beautiful style. A biographer once said he combined the patience of a Darwin and the literary brilliance of a Huxley.

An English writer once said Ellis knew the intimate secrets of more people than anyone else. The experience of hundreds came to his attention and he gave much time to helping them by letters.

Fate of Neutral Bill Held by 2 F. D. Foes

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 10—President Roosevelt's forces and a bitter multi-partisan opposition engaged in a fierce tussle today for votes vital to Senate action at this session on neutrality legisla-

The President must command support of a majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at its meeting tomorrow to combat a move to postpone neutrality legislation until the next session of Congress.

Lines in the committee were sharply drawn, and the issue narrowed today to the votes of two Democrats who were on the President's "purge" list in 1936—Senators George of Georgia and Gillette of Iowa.

GILLETTE IS SILENT

Neither of these two Senators would commit himself early today, though George hinted at a vote against neutrality action, with the observation that a neutrality bill this year seemed "highly improbable."

Presuming George to be with opposition, key members of the 23-man committee said the membership stood 11 to 11 for and against the President's demand for neutrality action—with Gillette the decisive factor and uncommunicative. Even if the New Deal wins a committee vote on neutrality, it faced an uphill fight for the legislation asked by the President—a law lifting the existing neutrality statute's ban on arms shipments to warring nations. The House met this request with enactment over strong administration pressure of a bill retaining the arms embargo. And a powerful Senate coalition claiming 34 votes pledged to oppose "in every honorable way" enactment of legislation permitting shipment of arms to belligerents or in any way increasing the President's power over the foreign policy.

ROUSE WONT SURRENDER

If the President wins in committee tomorrow and a neutrality bill is taken to the Senate floor, a struggle approaching the intensity of that which defeated the President's Supreme Court enlargement bill lay ahead. The Senate is split into a dozen factions on the question of foreign policy, but many of these were combined in their opposition to such a law as that demanded by the executive.

Furthermore, Republicans and a number of Democrats in the House have served notice that even should the Senate pass a bill satisfactory to the President, its membership never would surrender the present neutrality law's embargo provisions.

Administration supporters insisted refusal to pass a law as requested would encourage dictator nations in Europe. While opposition forces counseled a course of strict American isolation from the affairs of Europe, the New Deal supporters claimed vehemently that enactment of a law permitting shipment of arms abroad the effect of preventing

Judge's Beach Attire, Trunks; Hits MDC Ban

Revealing that he himself owns only a pair of trunks, and declaring he wouldn't bother to buy a bathing suit top to go to Revere Beach, Judge Frank D. Crowley in Chelsea District Court today served notice once more on the Metropolitan District Commission that he would discharge every prisoner brought before him on "topless bathing suit" charges.

As defendant Joseph Larusso, 22, of Prince street, Boston, went before the judge he was asked how he pleaded.

"I don't know how to plead, Your Honor," said Larusso.

"Well, I'll tell you how to plead—plead not guilty," said the judge.

He then denounced the Metropolitan District Commission rule and observed:

"I don't own anything but a pair of trunks myself, and that means that if I went to Revere Beach I'd be arrested."

2 Held on Girl Attack Charges

Two men who denied attacking a 22-year-old Boston bride last Friday night, after driving her to Hopkinton, today were held in $800 bail each by Judge Edward W. Blodgett in Framingham District Court.

Spencer Gundersen, 23, of Stow road, Mattapan, was charged with assault and battery and driving to endanger; and William Chadwell, 28, charged with assault and battery and improper conduct. They were accused of attacking Mrs. Esther Roan, 23, of Tremont street, Boston, after offering to drive her home from an Essex street grill.

Landis Lets All In Bridges Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10 (AP)—Harry Bridges' deportation hearing may be thrown "open to the man in the street."

The hearing was scheduled to be held on Angel Island in San Francisco Bay, but when Dean James M. Landis, trial examiner, arrived today, he said he understood the trial should be public and room provided for as many people as possible.

"I see no reason for holding the entire trial on Angel Island unless it is impossible to find room in San Francisco," said the Dean of Harvard law school.

The trial hall is the 21-by-23-foot dining room of the immigration department's building on Angel Island. Because of limited space, only those directly connected with the trial, newspaper reporters and representatives of "legitimate" interests would be admitted, under present arrangements.

Landis described the Bridges trial as a "complete departure" from usual deportation proceedings. Opening of the hearing to the press and public are new to such hearings, he said.

The affair is to be called "The Human Slave Market," and according to the Park's press agent, is a human interest enterprise for the betterment of lonely hearts.

Pointing out that while there are a number of matrimonial agencies advertising their "clients" in catalogues, brochures, etc., the Park trustees that saw men and women, seeking matrimony, will be on public display.

The prospective brides and grooms, recruited from all parts of the country—principally through their own advertisements in matrimonial papers—will be displayed on a huge circular platform. Each will carry a card detailing his or her educational background, financial condition and so on.

In addition, Clem White (who announces the six-day bike races) will several times a day give leather-lunged fellows further detailing the qualifications and attributes of the would-be-weds.

The slogan of the exhibit is "A Maid for Every Man—a Man for Every Maid," and announces those who already have been signed up to be displayed for matrimonial purposes.

ALLEN IS PARDON WITNESS

Behind closed doors, a special legislative commission investigating pardons and paroles met today to hear testimony from former Governor Frank G. Allen and two members of the executive council—All Republicans.

The appearance of Allen, who was governor in 1929-30, and Councilors Blavard, Turkerman of Hudson and Frank Brooks of Concord was the result of "invitations" sent to them by the commission. Brooks also is a former chairman of the parole board.

Allen was one of four former governors asked to appear for questioning. Rep. Roland D. Sawyer (D) of Ware, commission secretary, said that all but one of the four James M. Curley had accepted "invitations."

Former Governor Joseph B. Ely, Sawyer said, would testify tomorrow while former Governor Charles F. Hurley has requested a chance to appear before the commission on his return from a trip to Ireland, probably within two weeks.

Several other members of the executive council also are expected to be heard before the commission opens public hearings.

Saltonstall Reads His 14 Charges Against Callahan

eratic Governors preceding the administration of Governor Saltonstall, has had control over the expenditure of many millions of dollars.

His resignation was demanded publicly by Saltonstall after a special three-man commission reported its findings.

Just before the hearings were opened today—and they are expected to run two to three weeks—Commissioner Callahan issued a statement in which he said:

"I shall prove that the Department of Public Works, under my administration, has saved the taxpayers of the Commonwealth more than $15,000,000 by its prompt and cautious action in coping with the terrible havoc wrought by the hurricane and floods.

"These charges that I have wasted public funds are based on the report of a commission whose chairman, Charles P. Howard, has repeatedly declared that he would 'get' me."

"As a result of this personal animosity toward me, I am now confronted with wild allegations that were made for publicity purposes with no effort at substantiation."

'FOOTBALL OF POLITICS'

"At no time during the alleged investigation of the Public Works Department did any member of the commission interview me or my engineers. No effort was made to get the real facts."

"It is a pity that the work of relief for the suffering should now be made a football of politics in order to satisfy the personal animosity of one man—Charles P. Howard."

As the hearing got under way, Chairman Howard was present with the other two members of the investigating commission: City Controller Henry L. Shattuck and former Assistant Attorney-General John L. Hurley.

Seated beside the governor was his personal counsel, Raymond Wilkins.

Only three members of the executive council, Raymond Turkerman, Frank Brooks and George Nelson, were present. There are three of the eight Republicans, including Lieutenant-Governor Horace Cahill. There is only one Democrat, Daniel H. Coakley.

FIRST WITNESS HEARD

The first session of the hearing recessed for lunch after the first witness, Ralph E. Houghton, chief assistant of the State Administration of Finance Commission, testified that two state contracts for repair of flood and hurricane damage had been awarded on a basis of competitive bidding.

He signed contracts for "extravagant prices" with favored contractors; that he contained improper competitive bidding or no bidding at all, and that he violated the statutes by spending emergency appropriations for work not made necessary by the hurricane and floods.

Further he was charged with signing amendments to contracts "unnecessarily, unreasonably and unfairly" increasing the price for structural steel, despite the fact that the contractors had accepted the original contracts.

Also he was charged with signing contracts for permanent bridges without inviting competitive bids, when the hurricane emergency had been met by temporary repairs or the construction of temporary bridges, and with signing contracts for "unnecessary bridges" including the Anderson bridge, the Shaw bridge in Goshen and four bridges on the road to West Haver in Buckland.

One charge by the governor was that Callahan signed a $22,000 contract to pay 75 cents a cubic yard for gravel and ordinary borrow (or dirt fill) "which price was grossly in excess of the reasonable and fair cost of such work to the Commonwealth."

The investigating commission which reported its findings to the governor is represented by Charles B. Tuggs, son of the late chief justice of Supreme Court.

Now Arrives The Charles 'Gondola'

With youthful skippers from congested West End and North End neighborhoods at their helm, fast-sailing, little pleasure boats of a new and unconventional type are skimming the Charles River basin this week.

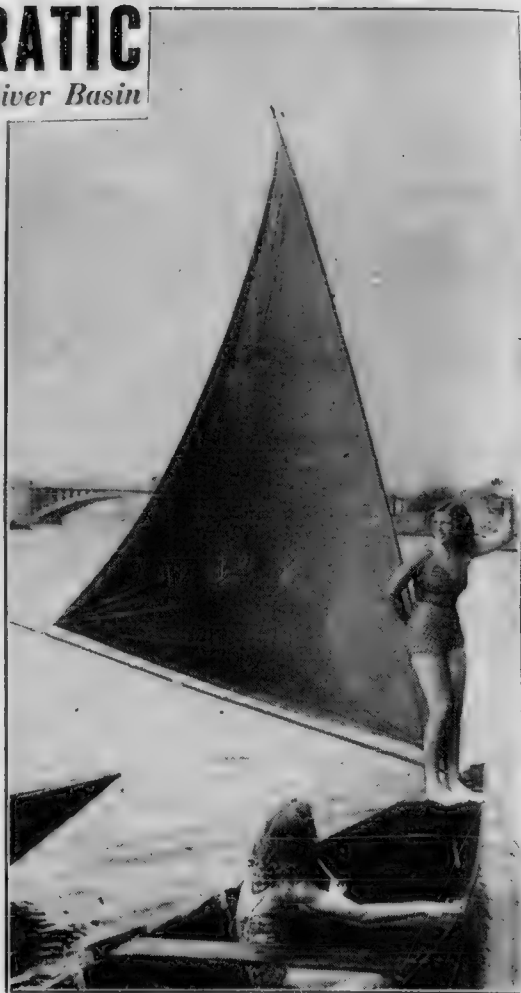

These are three-masted "gondolas," with lateen rigged sails. Joseph Lee, Jr., Boston school committee man and No. 1 Charles River basin booster, designed them.

And they were built by Lee's youthful protégés, Boston boys and girls long on kumpon but short on money to spend for amusement purposes.

Total cost of the gondolas, sails and rig is only in the vicinity of $50, according to Designer Lee.

If advised, indeed, however, with the new swanky young yachtsman with a $500 to $1000 class boat.

For the cost of the three masts, sails and rigging, the craft is the most economical yet.

Enjoying the Breeze Are Helen Farley and Betty Dick

A Mast to Go—Kenneth Robertson and John Rudick of Beacon Hill rig up the new type boat in the Basin. The craft carries three removable sails.

SUMMER FINDS the New England area comfortable despite... fortunate sections of the United States.

Winds sweeping westward over three thousand miles of chilly ocean waters cool our shores and move inland across green plains and through verdant valleys to the snow-capped mountains of New Hampshire and the rolling hills of Vermont and Massachusetts.

No matter how hot the sun becomes there is AIR—air warmly treated for human enjoyment by a natural conditioning... vastly more wonderful than any conceived by man.

While populations in the South, West and Middle West suffer in their roasted cities and scorched fields, all New Englanders find an ADDITIONAL pleasure of healthful bathing in fresh ocean water.

A TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND SUMMER SCENE
Echo Lake in the Cool Mountains of New Hampshire

That is why millions of tourists and travelers from the other forty-two States come here each year and discover "the little bit of heaven" they had dreamed about, but never really expected to experience.

Doubting Thomases and Skeptical Souls will find the Government's recent temperature reports convincing.

While Boston, fanned by a constant breeze, watched the mercury ascending to 87 degrees, the City of St. Louis, breezeless and breathless, saw its thermometers hit the 100 mark.

Last Friday, when the Boston temperature was 67, THIRTY-NINE other major cities within the United States were HOTTER.

As further proof that the New England climate is the most conducive to health, happiness and good nature on the North American continent, the United States Weather Bureau gives these facts:

During the year's hottest month Boston's average daily maximum temperature is a comfortable 80.1.

That is five degrees lower than Philadelphia's, ten degrees lower than New Orleans' and eight degrees lower than Miami's.

In the course of a normal year, Boston has 113 clear days in contrast to 92 in Cleveland, 101 in Minneapolis and 79 in Seattle.

The greatest number of thunder storms in this area is never more than 18. But Philadelphia reports an average of 27, Cleveland 31, Detroit 29, Chicago 37, Minneapolis 38, St. Louis 47, New Orleans 75 and Miami 74.

When all weather factors rain, snow, sunshine lightning and temperatures are considered, Boston excels Philadelphia by the possession of ten climatic advantages; Cleveland by 13, Detroit by 15, Miami by 10 and Seattle by six.

These are the facts which prompt General Secretary M. D. Cunningham of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to say:

"Year in and year out, Boston has just about as satisfying a climate as can be found in the working zones. I suggest that we cultivate the habit of admitting these advantages and not let our traditional modesty apply to the weather."

"UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING would reduce crime, establish identities and contribute vastly to the security of the American people," says J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

To prove his contention, Mr. Hoover presents interesting facts.

The police department of Richmond, Va., fingerprinted 7034 residents who sought assistance. The results were highly revealing. Of the 7034 persons, 444 had previous police records—287 for minor charges and 157 for serious offenses.

New York City took the fingerprints of 18,591 persons who applied for jobs in the educational and recreational department of the WPA and discovered that 1366 had criminal records.

Many who were seeking positions in playgrounds had previously been charged with the commission of sex offenses.

"I firmly believe that the public interest would best be served by requiring all persons in public office, or occupying positions of public trust, to be fingerprinted," says Mr. Hoover.

The Rocking Horse

THERE'S this about a rocking horse... You don't get anywhere, of course... You rock and rock and rock some more... You're not half way across the floor.

But then perhaps we shouldn't care... whether we DO get anywhere.

This earth goes plunging on its way... but where it's going who can say?... The universe itself through space... goes ever whirling on apace... And who knows what its goal may be... star-drifting through eternity?

—Paul T. Gilbert.

Human Side of News -1- by EDWIN C. HILL

THE UNITED STATES Golf Association, in a legalistic looking document sent to all members, clears up all doubtful points as to what you may or may not do if a bolt of lightning is giving you the hot-foot, just at the moment you are about to aim a Number 7 iron at the final hole with all square. If you start a bolt of your own, you're disqualified.

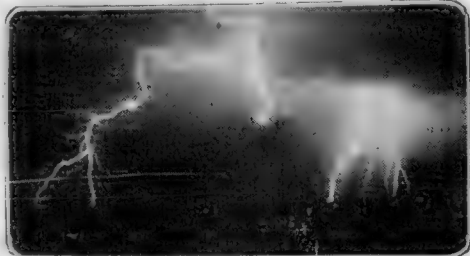

The Association has provided nitens for the course, and outlined rules and signals which may roughly be paraphrased as follows:

Don't stop playing, as the lightning pops, until you hear three consecutive notes from the siren, otherwise your penalty will be disqualification—alive or dead. And don't make the mistake of stepping up to the green just because the storm has passed. It will require one prolonged note of the siren, repeated, to pipe you back to play.

Under established rules, competitors in stroke play may not "discontinue play for any reason whatever, except such as the committee may consider satisfactory."

PRFSUMABLY the long, hot- stove season of the Association, from which these reassuring, comforting rules now emerge, was induced by the unusual lightning gunnery on the golf courses last year. Much of the circular is given to instructions on how not to tempt lightning.

Whatever you do, don't stick up

FOUR HITS DURING NIGHT ELECTRICAL STORM
"Don't Take Shelter Under a Barbed Wire Fence"

an umbrella, or raise a golf club over your head. Don't address the ball in the old-fashioned way that means sticking your club up just upper-cut the ball cautiously and don't try to flail it. Anything above your head is provocation to lightning.

When you get the signal three bolts—duck for a cave. If this modern improvement is lacking, pick the most promising hole in the ground you can find anywhere around.

Whatever you do, don't take shelter under a barbed wire fence, keep off "billtops and wide open spaces," and "away from small sheds and shelters."

LIGHTNING STATISTICS for America, covering the last 12 years, show that about three persons in every million are killed every year. New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois are safest.

On June 4, two spectators were killed in Kansas City's $5000 tournament. On July 15, Peter Bentley was killed while playing on the Jamesburg, N. J., course, on the green, where, 23 years before lightning had felled and stunned him.

The strange episode of Mr. Bentley's death was astonishingly paralleled on August 12, when John A. Maxwell was killed on the fairway of the Raritan, N. J. Country Club. On August 3, 1913, almost 25 years earlier to a day, he and two other players were knocked flat, a few hundred feet from this spot, by a lightning bolt.

Political Parade -1- By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The manner in which the Senate restored the temporary grant of monetary powers to the President smacked more of the high-handed methods of European dictators than it did of the American Congress.

That is what the American Congress used to do.

It will probably prove in the end to have been a dearly bought victory, for the President's powers further to devalue the dollar and to play around in European and South American politics with his $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund now wear the aspect of a plain fraud, and as such doubtless will be challenged in due time in the courts.

JUST TO ILLUSTRATE how far America has departed from the Constitution, consider that at midnight on June 30 certain laws granting immense powers to the President over the currency expired by their own statutory limitation.

There had been enacted by House and Senate bills to extend these powers. Differences between Senate and House bills necessitated their being sent to a conference of the two houses for their adjustment. Differences between the two houses were settled by the conference committee.

SENATOR BARKLEY
Unflinchingly Changed Mind

ever report, and thereby automatically the House conference were discharged.

It was while the Senate was debating the conference report that at the hour of midnight, June 30 arrived, and the existing laws expired.

Senator Alben W. Barkley Kentucky's most celebrated WPA project, declared while the debate on the conference report was in progress, on June 30, that if the hour of midnight arrived before the adoption of the conference report, then the law would be as dead as if it had never existed.

On the following Wednesday he unobtrusively changed his mind, showing only that he has the courage of Mr. Roosevelt's convictions. So the Senate proceeded to do what?

It proceeded to adopt an amendment to certain laws which had EXPIRED FIVE DAYS BEFORE! It amended something that DID NOT EXIST!

UNDER these expired laws the stabilization fund should have reverted to the Treasury. Under the Constitution that money could not be utilized by anybody, President or anybody else, until it had again been APPROPRIATED FROM THE TREASURY.

What happened to that stabilization fund during those five days?

If it did not revert to the Treasury, who assumed the responsibility for such an illegal act involving two billion of dollars?

Of course it reverted to the Treasury.

We have gone a long way towards the destruction of the complete framework of government as it has existed during the past six years. But we must wait this time.

To His Soldiers Napoleon Said, "OIL YOUR FEET"
... and his burning feet probably

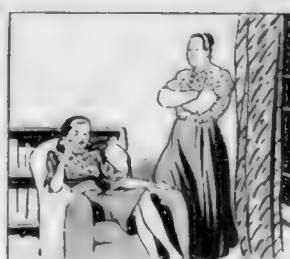

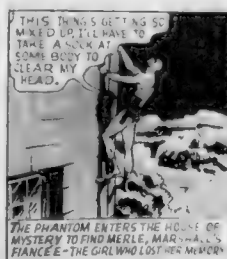

"On your feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march—he was a clever man.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

Rub them before going to bed and next morning you will probably awake happy—walk more joyfully to work—be "Oil your Feet!"

B'S MILLER GETS ALL-STAR BERTH

NEW YORK, July 10—Eddie Miller of the Boston Bees great rookie shortstop, was given a last-minute chance for All Star game honors today when he was named to replace Cookie Lavagetto of the Dodgers on the National League squad.

Managers Gabby Hartnett of the National Stars and Joe McCarthy of the Americans announced their starting lineups today for the big interleague battle at Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

Lavagetto, ill, was forced to resign from the National squad today and leave for Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. Hartnett later revealed that Miller would get the berth, though Arkie Vaughan of the Pirates will start at short.

Five Reds will start for Hartnett. Manager Gabby Hartnett said he will open with Paul Derringer on the mound.

The batting order:
Stan Hack, Cubs, third.
Lonnie Frey, Reds, second.
Ival Goodman, Reds, right.
Frank McCormick, Reds, first.
Ernie Lombardi, Reds, catcher.
Joe Medwick, Cards, left.
Mel Ott, Giants, center.
Arkie Vaughan, Pirates, short.
Paul Derringer, Reds, pitcher.
Bill Lee, Chicago, pitcher.
Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn, pitcher.
McCarthy's starting lineup, if he uses Red Ruffing on the hill, will include six Yankees, a record number from any one team in this annual Dream Game. He said his lineup would be:

Doc Cramer, Boston, right.
Red Rolfe, Yankees, third.
Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, center.
Bill Dickey, Yankees, catcher.
Hank Greenberg, Tigers, first.
Joe Cronin, Boston, short.
George Selkirk, Yankees, left.
Joe Gordon, Yankees, second.
Red Ruffing, Yankees, pitcher.
Tommy Bridges, Tigers, pitcher.
Bob Feller, Indians, pitcher.

Landis Names Umps For Star Battle

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—Ken Landis, umpire in chief, today Cal Hubbard and Eddie Reame of the American League, and George Magerkurth and Larry Gortz of the National, would umpire the all star game tomorrow at New York.

Nation Cheers on Sox In Mad Pennant Rush

By JOE CASHMAN

NEW YORK, July 10 Tomorrow's all star game, billed as baseball's mid-season classic, will be but an anti-climax after the Red Sox fantastic feat of taking two straight double headers and five games in a row from the world's champions Yankees in the Bronx ball yard.

So, too, will be anything else that happens in either big league season the remainder of the campaign.

And that goes even if the heroic Hub hose ride the crest of this surge until they clinch the pennant.

For now letting is close to even money that this will happen even though the Yankees retain a 6½ game lead.

But only three days back the Bombers were definitely "home" in the minds of everybody but the courageous Croninmen, and nobody, not excepting maritima munchers, would have wagered "denier" against a "rand" on the Fenway favorites taking three let alone five, from the champs on their own orchard.

Yes, my friends, the Sox precedent-setting performance was the outstanding diamond miracle since the Braves of Boston went 26-20 in 1938.

It was the greatest thing that could possibly have happened to the American League, which was slowly but surely approaching financial ruin due to interest killing Yankee supremacy year after year.

It was more than that. It was an event of national importance.

If Joe Cronin received one, he received 500 congratulatory telegrams last night. They came from the 48 states of the union. Some of the signers Joe knew; others he never heard of before.

There was a striking similarity in the sentiments expressed in the many messages, representing an impressive cross-section of the nation's opinion.

Each revealed he had been waiting for years for the day when the Yankees would be shown to have first of all, departed of even second place and now was a nothing again.

SEE YANKS FOLDING
Moreover, all added the opinion that if the Yankees were to win, they'd keep folding up, soon fall below the Sox and stay there. The experts weren't quite ready to agree on that point, but they admitted the possibility of it.

As they sized up the situation much depends largely on how the other six clubs in the league get to the top, the surprising build by the Sox.

At the same time they expect to have a very close race for the bulky of the League of the season when they were rated this Yankee outfit as "the greatest of all times."

They couldn't do much else. LOSE SEVEN OF EIGHT.

It was that in the last game of the Sox lost the lead reduced to 1½. In 6½ games and lost seven out of eight, including the first of the series to the Sox.

Joe Cronin and his merry men, of course, had been scoffing at claims of Yankee invincibility all season, but they were ridiculed until they proved their case.

They proved it by becoming the first club to beat a Yankee entry in two straight double-headers and five games in a row in New York since the House That Built was dedicated in 1923.

Proved it by pinning back the ears of every star McCarthy's moundman, while the supposedly mighty Boston staff was short-circuiting the power of every mighty McCarthy maver.

The home run hammerers of the Bronx hit nothing more devastating than doubles in any of the five games, while Sox slugger Cronin and Sox catcher provided the victory margin in two games with round-trippers.

The famed defense of the champs was but ordinary at the start and crinkled wide open before the finish, as the Sox supporting cast pulled its pitchers out of an almost constant succession of last-inning, with spectacular plays, including a hit with a runner.

The Sox left not a fragment of doubt as to their superiority over the Yankees.

GAMES THIS WEEK

TONIGHT—Cambridge Red Sox at Arl

THERE WILL be hundreds of thousands of words written this week in regard to the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap that will be staged at Suffolk Downs on Wednesday afternoon. Some of the better thoroughbreds are entered for this classic.

I will, of course, be interested in watching this race, and will enjoy the finish even if I do not have a $2 ticket on the winner.

TARZAN BROWN

With most people discussing the running of thoroughbreds, I have been trying to decide in my own mind whether Indians are superior runners to white men.

"Tarzan" Brown, a member of the Narragansett tribe, won the B. A. A. Marathon this year. Such experts on long distance running as Frank Archer of Moxie fame, Walter Brown, Dex Wardsworth and Oscar Hedlund acclaimed Brown's feat as one of the most startling they have ever witnessed.

Edgar Tobey, another member of the Narragansett tribe who has been making his home on Cape Cod, recently came up with a bang-up ten-mile race.

The running successes of Brown and Tobey have caused many people to believe that when it comes to long distance races the Indians are supreme as Johnstown, Chaledon and other thoroughbreds that have proven they are in turf classics.

The Indians, argue the supporters of Brown and Tobey, have worked harder and trained more faithfully than their white rivals. It is contended that by privations they have developed their bodies to a point where they can be subject to great tests of endurance.

I do not expect white long distance runners to agree with the opinions held by the supporters of Brown and Tobey. I would be pleased if some of our leading white Marathoners would give an expression of their views on whether they believe the Indians are supreme in races from 10 to 26 miles.

On recent records, one must give first honors to the Indians. Brown and Tobey have a habit of coming in first when they are opposed by leading white runners.

Pitching has helped

There isn't any secret for the fine showing of the Red Sox. The answer is better pitching. Fritz Ostermuller certainly pitched a swell ball game against the Yankees in New York on Saturday, while Dennis Galehouse also came through with a winning effort. Galehouse and Auker were early year disappointments which is why the Sox had difficulty winning. Keep up the good pitching, and the Sox will continue to close in on Joe McCarthy's club.

JAMES WADSWORTH, Cambridge.

Swimming race

Why doesn't somebody sponsor a long distance swimming race? There are plenty of local swimmers who would like to test their ability against some of the leading swimmers in the East in a distance event.

L. STREET.

Likes Lou Nova

I believe Lou Nova has a better chance than Bob Pastor or any other heavyweight to beat Joe Louis.

SUFFOLK DOWNS stewards are today investigating the R. A. Coward horses. . . Today's entries from the Coward stable were ordered scratched by the stewards. . . The stewards announced their ruling after Be Jabbers, owned by R. A. Coward, won the Hannah Dustin Handicap on Saturday. . . Be Jabbers came in to pay $17.20 for $2. . . It is expected that the stewards will have an early announcement to make as to what their investigation shows.

The rush of the Red Sox and Bees has got the town talking baseball once more. . . The public will await with deep interest the result of the coming Western tour of the Sox.

Tarzan's Spurt Beats Kelley

NEW BEDFORD, July 10 (AP)—Closing with a spurt, Tarzan Brown, Narragansett Indian from Alton, R. I., edged Johnny Kelley of Arlington, Mass., to capture his second successive Irish-American A. C. 12-mile road race.

The race was a two-man affair as Brown and Kelley matched strides for the greater part of the course, with the Arlington runner leading by a step until Brown put on a spurt in the final mile.

Hawk Zamparelli, of Medford, came in third, more than five minutes behind Brown. Clarence DeMar, veteran Keene, N. H., ace, was fourteenth.

Nation Cheers Red Sox Sweep Of Yank Series

ran their current win streak to eight straight and made it eight out of twelve over the leaders for the season.

Our heroes were never for a moment behind in taking the first three games.

They hadn't yet proved what they could do if they were under the pressure of being behind.

That opportunity was presented to them in each game of the Sabbath doubleheader, and they came through more gloriously than they had on the previous two afternoons.

The Yanks gained a two-run advantage for "Lefty" Gomez against Moose Grove in the opener.

Poxx cut the handicap in half with a 45-foot triple in the sixth. Came the eighth with Monte Pearson now pitching for the Yanks, Gomez having been stopped by a finger blister.

Two Sox were down and nobody. Up stepped Mr. Cronin, the gamest, tightest leader you or I have ever seen. He had all but argued himself out of the game disputing a decision against him in the sixth. He coaxed sparks now.

He brought the count down to 3 and 2, fouled off four pitches and then led off. Into the left field seats 100 feet away, landed his 11th homer of the year.

DICKMAN AGAIN

And who protected that lead? None other than the slim Emerson Dickman, Friday's flinging hero, coming back to relieve Grove at the start of the seventh and pitching three scoreless innings despite the Yanks filling the bases with one out in their seventh.

The Yanks literally tossed away the nightcap.

They jumped into a one-run lead against Elden Auker in the first, but "Bump" Hadley made two bad throws to give the Sox three runs.

Meanwhile, Jack Wilson, relieving Auker in the second, hurled scoreless two-single ball up to the eighth, and was then leading, 5 to 1, thanks to a Poxx homer with one on off the undefeated Alley Donald in the first of the eighth.

Guided by the boom of a crowd of 48,000, the Yanks regained a little pep in their eighth. The first two batters up singled and Joe Heving rushed in to be greeted by a DiMag single, scoring two runs.

The champs seemed finally to be rolling again. But it was a false alarm.

Heving fanned Bill Dickey and, after Keller singled, whiffed Gordon and retired pinch-hitter Selkirk easily. Then he breezed through the ninth.

The impossible had happened. And don't bet it won't keep on happening.

Pets Await Mound Ace

Hopes for an early return of Helen Johnston to the Olympics pitching mound were brighter today, and the local team is hopeful she will be ready to show work against the Manhattan Beach Girls at the Garden on Thursday evening.

The Johnston lass has been the Pets' most successful pitcher and seems to add pep and confidence to the local array.

The Metropolitan League has now been completed, and it has an interstate flavor. The latest entry is the Robobarth Milkmaids from Rhode Island.

This completes the four-team league that Commissioner Pat Rooney has been striving to put together for the past several months. The Home Service Laundry Girls, the Totem Pole Girls and the Boston Gardenians round out the loop.

SABIN RAQUET WINNER

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., July 10.—Wayne Sabin today held the first leg on the Gold Raquet trophy, having defeated Hal Surface in the final round.

JOE CRONIN'S OWN STORY OF AMAZING SURGE OF RED SOX

Mr. Joseph Edward Cronin, a ball player who didn't get scared in the Big City, stuck out that fighting chin of his today and promised baseball-mad Bostonians that their Red Sox were on the way up.

"Now, Joe, just about the most modest man in baseball, didn't say where 'up' meant, but the smallest child and your Aunt Matilda knows that only the New York Yankees stand in their path to the top of the American League—and only 63 games away.

Pennant?

"I never heard the word," countered Joe. "I never heard the word before."

"WE'VE GOT FIGHT"

"You can say that the Red Sox are the great ball club I always said they were, and that from now on we're going to prove it."

"We've got pitching and hitting clicking together now, and what's more, everyone on the club has got fight—plenty of it."

"This morning I'm thinking of Thursday afternoon, when we play Cleveland in Cleveland. We'll take our games day by day and let the pennant take care of itself."

PRaises TED, "2-X"

Ted Williams, the Red Sox freshman star, and Jimmie Poxx, long handicapped by ailments, won their manager's praise for the startling form reversal of the club that a handful of disgruntled home-town-ers had labeled "Red Flaps."

Fritz Ostermuller, a pitcher who went by fits and starts, and Emerson Dickman also got a pat on the back for the five-straight game sweep which has left the "invincible" New York Yankees "not quite so sure."

"Poxx has got all his old power back and Ted is playing as good ball as anyone would want," Cronin added.

"In fact, everyone on the club is in the best of shape and proving it."

"It seems that our pitching is matching our hitting at last and that's a combination which will be hard to beat."

"ASK JOE MCCARTHY"

"Every pitcher on the club is ready and anxious to go. I don't know myself which ones to start. Perhaps, I can leave it up to those grandstand managers."

"No, I won't say that we've cracked the morale of the Yankees," Joe continued cautiously. "You'd better ask Joe McCarthy about that. He's just the fellow to know."

Not only is Cronin modest about his club's pennant chances, but even more so about his own playing—the "talk of the league."

"I've been pretty lucky this trip," was his comment on his savage hitting, including his game-winning homerun of yesterday.

"A fellow has to get lucky

Mack, Improved, To Hear Star Tilt

PHILADELPHIA, July 10 (AP)—Connie Mack, who was to have been manager of the American League team in tomorrow's dream game at New York, probably will "listen in" to learn how his substitute, Joe McCarthy, makes out.

Mack, 62 since 10 days ago, was reported by his family today as improved. He has not been able to sit up because the illness, coupled with his 76 years, has left him weak.

sometime," he explained.

"So they liked it in Boston?" Joe asked.

"I'm glad of that and I've got a hunch we'll keep on giving them what they like. We'll be trying for every game and the way things are beginning to click, we'll win our share."

N. Y. GROGGY NOW

The vaunted Yankees were a quiet crew today but the New York sports writers still groggy from the miracle they thought they would never live to see, were ready to concede that the American League race looks like a fight.

The more optimistic New Yorkers recall that the Yankees hit a somewhat similar slump while way out in front in 1928. They point out that the club caught itself and went on to win—ending up with a four-straight game World Series over the St. Louis Cardinals.

What happened in never-to-be-forgotten last week in Yankee Stadium had been predicted quite some time ago by Manager Joe McCarthy.

"I asked if his worries were not all over with his club's dozen games in front, McCarthy answered:

"I've always got worries. 'I predict we'll have a let-down, and I'll probably come some time after the fourth of July. There's nothing sure in baseball," he said.

But in the meantime, don't mention the word 'pennant' within the sound of Joe Cronin. For Joe won't understand.

He never heard the word

State Net Champ Gains Victory

OSTERVILLE, July 10 (AP)—Bob Decker, Massachusetts' state tennis champion, advanced to the final of the Oyster Harbors Invitation tournament by defeating Peter Shank, Williams College star, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1.

Bees Grab Ice Packs After Dual Drubbing

Ice-packs on their heads to soothe thumping headaches, no doubt traceable to their tumbles in the Sabbath twin-bell before the feeble Phillies, the Bees began a three-day convalescence today, with nothing to do until Thursday except try to recover.

Casey Stengel and his puzling corps feel the All-Star game arrives at a propitious time, for they need a rest after the twin routings by the Phillies, who captured the second game, 7-4, with a first-run rally after two were retired in the ninth, having beaten Danny MacFadden, 3-1, in the opener.

Lou Fette is the lone Bee to miss the vacation. He leaves today for New York, where he will be with the National League All-Stars against the American League All-Stars at Yankee Stadium tomorrow Saturday. Fette showed up last Saturday he is "right" again, pitching a three-hit, 4-0 shutout over the Phils.

It is the opinion of many that Eddie Miller should be at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow, too, but Miller was not invited. Miller was one of the stick-outs for the Bees as they stumbled on the Sabbath, along with Tony Cuccinello, combining on three sparkling double plays in the first game. The Bees' infield now has 50 twin-killings to its credit.

Kirby Higbe's pitching was too much for the Swam in the first game, the ex-Cub showing the Phils the way home after they had missed out 10 straight times. They came very close to missing out in the nightcap when they were out in the eighth when the Phils came out of their dream with a six-hit detonation.

Lanning, although facing but one batter and giving up only one of the six hits, was the victim, for he put the winning run on the path. Boling doubled and Scott and Arvin singled off M. H. Shoffner. May touched Lanning for a single and Joe Sullivan came to be greeted by Heinie Mueller's three-run homer.

It was sudden disaster for the Bees, who apparently had the game in the win column with a 2-1 lead. Fortunately the Phils will not be around for some time to come and the Bees will be glad to get rid of the cellar-tensets who give them so much trouble.

Next comes the type of opposition which the Bees favor, because they seldom fail to harass the top-fighters. The Cards will arrive on Thursday and remain through Saturday, moving out for St. Louis.

Stewards Probe Coward Horses At Suffolk

By JACK CONWAY

The stewards at Suffolk Downs today opened an investigation of R. A. Coward's horses. Until such time as the investigation is completed, Racing Secretary Charley McLennan has been instructed not to receive any of the entries of the Coward stable.

The stewards took their action after Be Jabbers, owned by Coward, won the Hannah Dusted Handicap at Suffolk Downs. Be Jabbers ran a brilliant race on Saturday, which was a decided improvement over his previous racing effort.

The stewards stated R. A. Coward will be given an opportunity to give his story about the running of his horses. The stewards will announce as soon as possible whether Coward will be permitted to enter horses during the remaining two weeks of the Suffolk Downs meeting.

$50,000 'CAP NEXT
The climax of the Suffolk Downs meeting will be reached on Wednesday, when the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap is held. It is expected there will be at least a dozen starters in this turf classic.

The track at Suffolk Downs is lightning fast as a result of the recent heat wave. Racing Secretary McLennan says that a few showers would aid the track, provided Wednesday is clear.

There has been a leveling off in the mutual handle due to the long meeting and in some cases short fields. The short fields in some of the feature races has on occasions eliminated show betting.

The Massachusetts Handicap is expected to draw a big crowd, many visitors from out-of-town will come to Boston to see the race.

WILSON FOR CHALLENGED
The Massachusetts Handicap and the Narragansett Handicap, the latter event originally brought to New England by Walter O'Hara, have been two of the outstanding turf events in the East in recent years.

Dave Wilson has gone right out on a limb and picked Chalcodon, winner of the Preakness, to win the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap. Wilson has the happy faculty of coming up with winners.

STRATTON CHOICE IN STATE AMATEUR

By BILL GRIMES

Because Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford and Freddie Wright will not play in the 35th Massachusetts amateur championship starting tomorrow at Tedesco Country Club, there'll be a free-for-all battle for the honor of being the top ranking simon pure of the Old Bay State.

There have been 24 state amateur championships played since Francis Ouimet crashed through for the first time at Wollaston in 1913. . . . The title, for the most part, has been cornered by Ouimet, Guilford or Wright. From 1913 through 1931, Karl Mowser in '23 and Eddie Lowery in '27 were the only players aside from the "Old Guard" to hold the title. . . .

After he had won the state amateur title for the seventh time last year at Essex County Club, Wright announced he had wound up his championship career. . . . He had established two all time records, by winning the crown seven times and holding it by default at Kenwood in 1932. . . . It's been eight years since a Massachusetts amateur title has been successfully defended. . . .

WRIGHT STILL TOPS

After Wright put it back in circulation in 1932, the crown passed from Eddie Kirouac, to Joe Lynch, to Bill Haney, to Eddie Simpson, to Clark Hodder, to Dave White-side and then back to Wright. . . . Due to the fact that he has a "hex" on the present day crop of state championship contenders, Wright wouldn't have a great deal of trouble defending his laurels at Tedesco. . . .

The Tedesco Country Club is in grand condition for the championship. . . . For the most part, the course is the same as that which was played during the junior championship back in 1925. . . . However, many of the 110 traps that the juniors tried to avoid have been discarded. . . . Tedesco is under-parred on both nines. . . . That 34 to the turn is bunk as is the 36 hole. . . . Take a peek at the three finishing holes, all of which are listed as four par. . . . Many contenders will pass right out of the running over that stretch. . . .

STRATTON PRIMED

Ensign F. Stratton, Woodland, is the player to watch at Tedesco. "En" has carried many mental hazards into state championships in the past, but he's primed mentally and physically for the test this year. . . . Moreover, a Stratton victory would be very popular. . . .

After he gets a peek at his father's score today in the New England Public Links championship at the George Wright Golf Club, Carl Moore, Jr., will be elated over the fact that the entry read Carl Moore, Sr. . . . Carl, Sr., never brags about his ability as a radio entertainer, but he will relate his links achievements by the hour. . . .

George W. Cook, Harold Brosse and Elmer Fisher did a fine job handling the annual Filene's golf tournament Sunday at Blue Hill. . . . Fred and Eric Noseworthy, who were guests at the Filene's tournament, were boy wonders as skaters. . . . Years ago they exhibited the skating ability many times at the Arena. . . .

Wes Ferrell is down in Greensboro, N. C., playing golf daily with George Corcoran, who is the pro at the former American League pitcher's home club. . . .

Hogan Cards 138 To Lead Field In P. G. A. Golf

NEW YORK, July 10 (INS)—It's only seven years old, but the All-Star game has become an irreplaceable part of every baseball season.

Shute was playing "under protest," an expediency decided on when the sit-down in his behalf held up the tournament for two hours and temporarily threatened cancellation of the entire program. Shute was banned when his annual dues tardily arrived at headquarters.

First to finish today was Mortie Dutra, who bagged his second par 72 for an aggregate of 144, Reggie Miles of Columbia station, O., shot a 73 today for a total of 145, and Abe Rapinosa of Los Angeles a 72-71-143.

Other total scores were: Jim Turnesa, 72-70-142; Horton Smith, 73-68-141; John Kinder, 73-75-148; Ted Luther, 72-72-144; Ed Dudley, 73-75-148; Gene Sarsen, 71-69-140; Dick Metz, 70-70-140.

Court Rejects 'Gansett Plea'

Possibility of the so-called "Second Battle of Narragansett" being moved into United States district court here seemed eliminated today when Judge George C. Sweeney announced he would refuse to "supervise or referee a Rhode Island corporation's election of officers."

The judge also indicated that he would decline to extend or make permanent a temporary injunction he issued at his New Hampshire summer home late Tuesday, restraining directors of the Narragansett Racing Association, Inc., from continuing their tabulation of stockholders' proxies.

The injunction was asked and obtained by Walter E. O'Hara forces, on allegation that the proxy count was being conducted unilaterally with intent to prevent reelection of O'Hara as managing director of the "Gansett race track." In their petition, O'Hara supporters sought to have validity of questioned proxies passed upon by Judge Sweeney. They also sought to have Judge Sweeney appoint a federal court master to supervise the proxy count.

CRONIN'S 'VICTORY' STORY

ON PAGE 29

Oh You Joe!—Face split with wide grin, Joe Cronin, manager-player of Boston's Red Sox, touches home plate after circuit clout in eighth inning of first game with Yanks in New York. Ted Williams, who scored ahead of Joe to put game on ice for Sox, extends hand in congratulation. In foreground is Joe Vosmik. Sox swept series of five games.

Couldn't Be Done?—Those Yank champs were a sadly deflated outfit today after Red Sox pulled "impossible" and licked them five times running. Heads up baseball like this play, in which Rolfe of Yanks is forced out at second by Bobby Doerr, did the trick.

Safe! So What?—Keller of the Yanks is safe stealing second in second game of yesterday's twin bill, but a little steal couldn't harm the Red Sox. They swept both games, 4-3 and 5-3, which, added to Saturday's double-header and previous day's win, gave them five of a kind. Marchons, mes enfants!
